

School of Liberal Education

Department of Humanities

Mid Term Examination

Exam Date: 01 Oct 2023

Time : 90 Minutes

Marks : 50

Sem V - K1UC505B - English Phonetics for Indian Students

Your answer should be specific to the question asked

Draw neat labeled diagrams wherever necessary

- 1) Compare the articulatory processes involved in the production of vowel and consonant sounds. K2 (2)
- 2) List three examples of consonant sounds that are produced with the lips. K1 (3)
- 3) Explain the relationship between the production of speech sounds and the anatomy of the vocal tract. K2 (4)
- 4) Outline the differences between monophthongs and diphthongs in terms of their production and duration. K2 (6)
- 5) Build a model or diagram illustrating the vocal tract and its role in speech sound production. K3 (6)
- 6) Make use of IPA to transcribe words, cat, train, syllabus, pharmaceutical, happiness, phone, psychology, strength, establishment. K3 (9)
- 7) Analyze various manners of articulation. K4 (8)
- 8) Distinguish between oral and nasal consonants, considering their articulatory and acoustic characteristics. K4 (12)

OR

Evaluate the relation between consonant sounds and their acoustic characteristics. K4 (12)