8. About 130 chemical factories were notified that they must cease operations because they polluted water and harmed public health. The factory proprietors refused to shut down their business and argued that the order violated Article 19 (1) (g) of the Indian Constitution because they had been in business for 25 years and employed 11,000 to 12,000 families. Explain whether the factory proprietors' argument is valid. Discuss with the help of applicable case laws decided by Supreme Court of India. K6 CO5 (6)
9. Mr. 'X' was engaged in the production of rubber goods in a building that lacked the necessary equipment to prevent carbon black from fleeing into the atmosphere. This resulted in numerous complaints from nearby residents who discovered carbon deposits on their clothing. The carbon even deposited on various religious objects and artefacts, including the Holy Eucharist, in the local church, causing widespread disruption among the congregants. Mr. 'X' appealed the complaint, arguing that carbon is not deleterious to human health and that the company's carbon emissions did not constitute a public nuisance. What options do residents of this area have for addressing this nuisance? Evaluate Mr. 'X's liability in light of applicable legal provisions and precedent cases. K4 CO3 (8)
10. Discuss the global impact of United Nation Environment Program in Environmental Protection. K5 CO4 (8)
11. Animals and plants aren't just valuable for their own sake. They're also part of a wider natural environment that may provide food, shelter, water, and other functions, for other wildlife and people. Describe the salient features of the Wildlife Protection Act 1972? K6 CO5 (8)
